PROLOGUE

Before the blade became a legend,
it was raised in blood and snow
— and claimed by command.

The mountain remembers.

ACT I
THE WIND

The wind arrives before the man.

ACT II

THE MOUNTAIN

The mountain does not move.

Men are measured against it

ACT III
THE FIRE

Fire does not test a man.
It takes what he cannot carry.

HE WAS TAUGHT TO USE THE BLADE
— NOT WHEN TO PUT IT DOWN
